Kristina Karamo

special guest speaker

Kristina Karamo is a mother, educator, and Christian Apologist. Her objective is to be an ambassador for Christ wherever she serves, which includes defending the God-given rights of all human beings. She served on Right to Life's Black Leadership Committee, and is currently a board member for Stanton International's Detroit affiliate. Kristina teaches public speaking and college orientation for Wayne County Community College. She also creates Christian Apologetic content, and frequently speaks on defending our constitutional rights on national and local media outlets. Kristina is a graduate of Oakland University with a B.A. in Communications, and of Biola University's Talbot School of Theology with an M.A. in Christian Apologetics. Kristina has recently stepped into the political arena as a candidate for Michigan Secretary of State.
